Scientist Seeks Lighter Rocket For 100-Mile Stratosphere Trip

By JOHN B. CURTIS

Roswell, N. M. (AP)—The phenomenon of gravity which amazed Isaac Newton centuries ago confronts Dr. Robert H. Goddard as he nears a conclusive test in his 20-year effort to unveil the mysteries of the stratosphere with an instrument-laden rocket.

With two of three major problems solved, the Clark University professor now seeks materials that will cut by half the weight of his present 80-pound rocket and thus increase the amount of fuel it can carry.

Success in that, he believes, would more than double the height to which a rocket could be fired with the fuel now used.

Expect Trial Soon

The problems of obtaining a continuous flow of firing energy and of direction stabilization—by means of a "mechanical brain"—already have been solved.

Since 1932, Dr. Goddard and his staff have worked constantly near Roswell under funds granted by the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim foundation. The grant will expire in September and it has been indicated the scientist will try for a final test before that time.

DR. ROBERT H. GODDARD

His fellow scientists hope that Dr. Goddard will achieve a flight of 100 miles or more. The flight would be an arch, more or less steep, but on the question of the possible height to be attained, Dr. Goddard himself is reticent.

Should a flight of 100 miles be reached, however, scientists feel that an automatic camera could photograph the spectrum of the sun, obtaining ultra-violet lines screened out by the atmosphere.

Direction of the rocket is scientifically controlled by a gyroscope no larger than a watch.

Like "End of World"

Each instrument to be put aboard for the final test will be automatically released to return to earth in an individual parachute.

The tremendous force following the mixture of the rocket's fuel—gasoline and liquid oxygen—has made it difficult to get accurate observations during the tests.

"It's not much use," complained Dr. Goddard. "Each observer claims it's too much like his idea of the end of the world. After each test we've always found every man down on his knees, hugging the bottom of the observation pit."

DEFENDS WIFE IN TRAIN PLOT

Despite her conviction of conspiracy to wreck a train on which he was engineer, L. W. Vann believes his wife innocent. He is shown with her at their home in Pensacola, Fla., after the verdict. Mrs. Vann and two negroes, who pleaded guilty previously to a part in the plot, face prison terms of one to 40 years. The Vanns, who say they are in financial distress, maintain they are innocent victims of circumstances. (Associated Press Photo)

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Labor League Holds Convention

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—Labor's non-partisan league, organized three months ago with the announced intention of putting "the American Federation of Labor on the record for Roosevelt," held its first national convention today to make plans for the presidential campaign.

George L. Berry, president of the Printing Pressmen's Union and president of the league, carried to the opening session a letter of greetings from President Roosevelt.

League officials described the letter as a reminder of the president's administration efforts in behalf of workers.

Just before the meeting, Berry predicted in a statement that Mr. Roosevelt would get "100 per cent active support" in his campaign from "all of labor and friends of labor."

Berry also spoke beforehand of the union band the league had lined up for the convention.

He said, "at Governor Landon's acceptance ceremonies at Topeka, Kans., last month there were no union bands in the parade preceding his address."

"In fact one of the most notorious anti-union organizations in the state of Kansas had one of the loudest bands in the Kansas governor's parade."

Berry also planned to read resolutions by 20 state federations of labor, endorsing Mr. Roosevelt.

Railroad Employees

Washington, Aug. 10 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission reported today that on July 15 class 1 railroads had a total of 1,084,836 employees, an increase of .74 per cent over June and 6.92 per cent over July, 1935.

Best Customer.

Findlay, O.—Liberty High School seniors smiled when six-foot-four, 250-pound Deputy Sheriff Taylor R. Bennington breezed into their benefit ice cream social.

One senior said they "sure appreciated" his presence. The officer, their best customer, stowed away.

Gallon of ice cream
Three chicken sandwiches
Slice of watermelon
Cup of coffee
Piece of pie
Four pieces of cake.

Did It Count?

Atlanta—J. F. Meng drove from the 16th tee on the No. 2 East Lake Golf course yesterday and made a hole in one on No. 2 green.

His drive hooked high and wide off the 16th fairway and trickled into the No. 2 cup, separated by a barrier of trees from the hole for which he shot.

Call the Police.

Philadelphia—Patrolman James McDowell reported on duty in his new summer uniform but minus his regulation pistol.

"I had it when I left home," he said. "Somebody must have stolen it on the subway."

Our Growing Population

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Gaddis of Albany avenue extension, a son, John Myron, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Kearney of 35 Orchard street, a son, Peter, at Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Jagger of 66 Van Deusen street, a daughter, Edna Ellen, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian H. Ortleb of 10 Spruce street, a son, Edward, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustus E. Parker of R. F. D. 1, a daughter, Joan Marilyn, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. LaTour of 629 Delaware avenue, a daughter, Nancy Joan, at Kingston Hospital.

said they believed she was an American.

Saville Mangled.

Saville was reported to have been mangled by a shell from the rebel cruiser Almirante Cervera.

Reports from rebel lines near the Franco-Spanish border said strong forces of Fascists were gathering around San Sebastian and Irun for a prospective attack on the north central cities today.

The war ministry said the insurgents at Burgos were facing danger of an epidemic because no one in the town was willing to bury the bodies of war dead despite orders from General Emilio Mola.

A similar situation confronted residents of Valladolid.

The leader of Lefist troops in the Balearic Islands reported his men were pursuing rebel army and civil guard officers who fled to the hills after the capture yesterday of Ibiza, capital of the island of the same name.

In the Guadarrama mountain passes, Lefist militia consolidated its positions as Colonel Julio Mangada completed plans for a drive against the rebel stronghold of Avila.

Residents of the capital itself followed normal life Sunday night after authorities rescinded a former order prohibiting the use of electric lights. No cars, however, were allowed on the streets after 11 p. m. except official automobiles and trucks transporting soldiers to the northern front.

Armed Supervision.

Anarchist leaders in Barcelona asserted Lefist forces in the government-controlled Catalan capital would continue to maintain armed supervision of the city.

"We will deal energetically with any of those armed workers wishing or attempting to satisfy their personal hatred and also those looting and robbing," they said.

"There is talk of the danger of foreign invasion. We have respected the lives and interests of foreigners but if this is so, there is no one more capable or more fit to defend the liberty of the people than the people."

The president of the council of the Catalan government announced General Manuel Goded, former military governor of the Balearic Islands and a leader in the revolt, would be court-martialed tomorrow.

General Goded with several other Fascist officers was captured in Barcelona shortly after the start of the uprising.

Rebels Manned

(Copyright, 1936, By Associated Press)

Hendaye, France, Aug. 10.—Reinforced rebel troops, ordered to attack San Sebastian and Irun, were massed today near the frontier towns held by Lefist militia.

Official orders were received from Fascist headquarters at Burgos for a strong offensive against both Lefist-dominated municipalities today.

Heavy detachments of Fascist militia poured into the rebel camp through Sunday. The majority of the fresh troops were declared to have come from the insurgent concentration point of Pamplona.

French authorities, anticipating a battle just across the border, arranged to intern any fleeing combatants crossing the frontier in old barracks at Bayonne.

Went San Sebastian

Reports reaching Hendaye said Gen. Emilio Mola, rebel commander in the north, had been urged by Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the Fascist rebellion, to redouble his efforts to take San Sebastian and Irun as a block against possible rear guard attacks from Lefist militia.

The troops moved into position in Hendaye already scarred by military engagements during battles shortly after the revolt began when Loyalist soldiers forced the rebels to retire from the area.

Rebel army headquarters at Burgos was the scene of concerted activity as troops prepared to move.

Reaping The Whirlwind

A few decades ago a coterie of mandarin sentimentalists succeeded in doing away with corporeal punishment, both in the home and school. What a harvest of juvenile frightfulness we are now reaping as a result of such an asinine policy! Homicide, fratricide, even regicide, the murder of parents by infants under 20, is now of such frequent occurrence as to be hardly front page news. And the appalling record of holdups, robbery and brutal killing by young thugs of tender years, is unparalleled in the annals of criminology.

As a boy, I was soundly thrashed when wayward both at home and in school, and I can say from experience that it never did me any harm, but much good. I never saw anyone really injured by these whippings, and the physical pain and shame these chastisements entailed were a very real deterrent, and we thought twice before repeating the offense we were punished for. Nowadays it is indeed rare to hear a child, even those carefully nurtured, answer "Yes sir" or "No sir" when addressed by an elder, and the entire lack of respect shown by the young of both sexes for the old and infirm, is not an augury of good for the future well being of the people or nation. When common sense is discarded for weak sentimentality, we are heading into trouble.

Dear Freeman:
Will you publish the following in "The Public Pulse" or other part of your paper? In Saturday's account of "The Forum" at Stone Ridge, when Democratic State Chairman Fell was the speaker.

I was mentioned as having asked "if Landon cannot keep his promises will present incumbent of the White House cut down some of his colossal errors?"

I wish to say that I asked no question, or made any remark. If that somewhat involved question was asked I did not hear it.

Respectfully,

Early Trial Ahead For Clevenger Case

tained and questioned Thursday night.

Officers said Moore showed them where he had cached his gun under his house, although at that time he denied any knowledge of the girl's death. He said he had loaned the weapon to a bell boy two days before the crime.

On the butt of the pistol—which Moore asserted in his confession, he used to bash the girl's face—officers said they found blood stains and a few blonde hairs.

They arrested Moore and put him and Taylor into a cell into which a dictograph had been installed. As the officers listened, Brown said, Taylor told Moore that he knew he had not lent the pistol to the bell boy and that he should go ahead and tell the officers of the crime. The two negroes nearly had a fight, Brown said.

After the youths had been in the cell about an hour, an officer entered and accused Moore of Miss Clevenger's death, informing him that his fingerprints had been found on the bedlamp in the girl's room.

Then Moore, Sheriff Brown said, "broke down" and confessed.

30 Days For Disorderly Conduct.

Steve Chumura, 26, of Flatbush, was arrested at Woodstock Sunday night by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Keefe and arraigned before Justice Wallace Shultz on a disorderly conduct charge. He was sentenced to 30 days in the Ulster county jail.

Lockhart Finds Traffic Very Heavy

A statement this morning by Sergeant Lockhart of Highland that traffic this summer is the heaviest he ever saw, bears out the reports that there are more summer guests in this section than for some years.

At the same time merchants, or at least some of them who have been questioned, claim that the visitors are not spending money as freely as in some other years. Many of the houses in the resort sections have been doing a capacity business and the so-called rooming houses have been especially well patronized.

TELLING THE KING

George Andrew McMahon, who threw a pistol at King Edward VIII, told the police why he did it.

I saw all the people happy and content. Then I remembered I had hardly the price of a meal. I thought, "What is the good of living?" I was going to shoot myself.
 Then I thought about my wife and that held me back. The thought suddenly struck me that if I could only draw the king's attention to the wrongs I imagined had been meted out to me, at least he would not allow his subjects to be so treated.

So, as in ancient days, he stood beside the road where the king was to pass, and did something which he hoped would make the king turn his head and listen to his plea. But throwing something was different from standing still and calling, "Oh King, hear me!" so he was taken into custody. If the tale be true, it has a strangely pathetic as well as ancient ring to it. Time was when it might have been enough to tell the king. The king was father of a small people in an almost personal way. He walked abroad for the purpose of righting wrongs, preserving justice, maintaining equity.

But now—it is too late. It is not enough to tell the king. It is not enough to tell the President. The personal plea may help by calling attention to the whole people, moving slowly but determinedly toward the end that all men be given the right to life, to liberty and to the pursuit of happiness. It is the people now who have the power. It is the people who have the responsibility.

AUGUST
 The silly season is appropriately ushered in by I. B. Hazleton's cover design on the outside of "This Week." A very nice-looking girl in a nice-looking red bathing suit sits on the end of a springboard with a camera ready to click. She is about to take the picture of the nicest old sea serpent in the world. He has raised his large, dripping, whiskery, prickly head to gaze, with a slightly startled air, at the girl with the camera. He has a humorous, almost benevolent grin. You know he'll stay there as long as the girl is harmless. But if she shies a pebble his way he will disappear into the depths of the green-blue sea. He's quite the nicest and most entertaining and best-mannered sea-serpent ever seen. Or ever not seen.
 And maybe he personifies the month.

Perhaps the silly things people do in August aren't so idiotic after all.
 They're just the bubbles stirred up by the passage of the gray old year.
 Some people do the silly things and other people laugh at them. And all the tension is relieved and an easy-going holiday spirit comes over the popular mind. For whatever the calendar may say, for most of the civilized world the headwork of the year begins after Labor Day. However hard they work in the summer, it is not the same. There's a let-down of the mind. With the onset of cooler weather, mankind takes a hitch in its pants and begins to think again. Meantime, take a good look at the mind's eye at the sea ser-pent's gamboling about and begin to laugh in spite of yourself. September is time enough to be serious about things. Let's have fun.

AUTO VALUES

The 1934 edition of Facts and Figures, published by the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, shows that the car owner feels so satisfied with his auto and also why the automobile industry has been getting along so nicely. The industry's 1935 operations, both in units produced and in value of output, were at a level almost 200 per cent above that of 1932. The depression's low period. If cars were sold by the pound, however, the 1935 average price would have been 21 cents a pound. It was 24 cents in 1935.
 The 1935 purchaser's good fortune is even clearer when horsepower is used as the basis for figuring price.

 Last year's cars averaged $7.50 horsepower, against $27.50 in 1935.
 The car owner has known he had a better car in 1935 than ten years earlier. It was more comfortable, ran better, called for fewer repairs, and so on. There were, also, more low and medium priced cars, suited to his purse, from which to choose.
 It is little to be wondered at that nearly three out of every four motor vehicles in the world are owned in the United States. American manufacturers know how to make cars that sell and American drivers know a good buy when they see it.

EXTRA NOISES

One of the jobs tackled by F. H.
 LaGuardia when he became mayor of New York city was the reduction of unnecessary street noises. Lately there have been complaints that the effort accomplished nothing and had even been abandoned. Now Mayor LaGuardia declares that the anti-noise ordinance of last April and the campaign started then "were not intended to be a 'nine-day wonder'."
 They were sincerely meant, noise-abatement is still a duty of police officers. Perhaps one reason for the failure of the campaign so far is that it was added to the tasks of an already busy police force. Popular education, if it were effective, would approach the problem constructively, requiring police action only for a few flagrant offenses.

No modern city can be absolutely silent. Probably no one would want it to be. The hum of many people and much activity is pleasantly exciting. But there is every reason to teach people to avoid unnecessary noises—auto horn honking, shouting, blaring radios heard far beyond the room or the car in which they are located. The unnecessary noises are the ones that put the last extra strain on the human nervous system and cause trouble.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Horton, M.D.
 (Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)

POSTURE IS IMPORTANT

That proper posture or balance of the body and proper posture—standing or sitting—is important to the body and mind of children is the belief of many schoolteachers.

Thus in some schools a "shadow-graph" of the standing position of the pupil is made on a large sheet of paper at the beginning of the term, or with the "posture" pictures in front of them the class is asked to put one another in his or her posture.
 His or her posture is described as
 (a) excellent, (b) good, (c) fair,
 (d) poor, (e) very poor. At the end of the term the class is again asked to put one another in their posture.
 The value of this little class exercise is that the pupils become aware of their posture and have it in mind only during school or play hours, but in the home and elsewhere. The teacher points out that while a good posture improves the appearance and helps the morale (making some lose their inferiority complex) it also greatly helps the general health of the body. A stooped over or slouchy attitude means that the upper parts of the lungs will not receive sufficient air and the blood coming throughout the entire body will not be as pure as when the body is held erect.

Many teachers in teaching correct posture have the pupil stand sideways to a mirror and then ask him to place himself in the posture class to which he belongs. It's rather strange but most boys and girls as they look into the mirror and compare themselves with the posture charts on the wall usually place themselves—poor as it is sometimes in their proper posture class.

The teacher then asks them to do just one thing, that is "to stand as tall as they can." Immediately the protruding abdomen is drawn in, the shoulders go back, and the chest straightens out. The pupil by simply standing tall has gone up from I and E—poor and very poor—to A or B—excellent or good.

THE WORLD WITH A FENCE

A New Novel by Marion Sims

SYNOPSIS. Two men desire Carol Torrance, who had intended taking her school teaching job in her sister, and to her sister, who is a dangerously charming woman with the worst of it in her blood. She has refused to marry Denis who is leaving Wednesday for a new job in Washington. And Mike Torrance, Carol's most promising pupil and the handsome boy she ever has seen, is the son of a gun. He is a predator, but just that, nevertheless.

Chapter 15

TORTURED PARTING

DENIS left Wednesday night.
 On Tuesday Anna Ford telephoned. "Carol! I'm expecting you for dinner tomorrow night. Then you can drive over to Erskine with Denis and Bill to catch the Washington train. I'd suggest your taking Denis alone, but it's thirty-five miles and you'd be pretty late getting back."

One of the worst things about not marrying Denis, Carol thought, was losing Anna as a mother-in-law. She said quickly:
 "You're an angel; of course I'll come."

"About six, then," Anna said.
 "We'll have to eat earlier than usual. I dare say Denis will consent to bringing you over."

In a town where eating was a necessary evil Anna Ford succeeded in imparting grace to her meals. She had dinner instead of supper at night, and wore soft, informal dresses, many of them shabby.
 There were cocktails tonight, to create at least a synthetic gaiety, and the talk was all of Washington.

Their farewells were as casual as her own had been, little more than a month before. Mr. Ford said:
 "Well, Denis, remember to give us the lowdown..." and Anna kissed him and smiled.

"Come back with your shield, darling, or on it."

That was bravado; she had no
 illusions about Denis.

The drive to Erskine was almost silent. Denis sat with his arm around Carol, holding her as tight as he could, and Bill kept his eyes on the road. When they drew up at the station Bill grinned at his brother and held out his hand.

"Well, old man, so long. I've got to see a fella about a dog..."
 They gripped hands without speaking, and Bill glanced at Carol.
 "I'll be back when the train leaves.
 God bless you, my children."

BUT when Bill had gone they still couldn't talk. There was, as there had been on the first night,
 too much to say—and not enough.
 They heard the train whistle finally with the relief of the condemned who prefer to have done with their ordeal.

Denis said huskily: "Don't come with me. If you do I'll never get on the damned train."

She shook her head. "Don't worry; I wouldn't for anything.
 Denis..." Her voice failed.

His mouth on hers was quick and hard, and she shut her eyes in order not to see his face. When she opened them he was walking down the platform.

Bill appeared suddenly from nowhere and started the car; drove the first few miles in a compassionate silence.

"If you want to use my shoulder," he said gruffly, "it's at your disposal."

She laughed a little. "Thanks, but I guess not. Denis told me once that I wasn't the type."

"Boloney; they all are," Bill said firmly. He was twenty-three, and he knew.

After that they talked, and she managed fairly well. Hadn't she, once, wanted Denis to go and leave her in peace? Even the ache was shot through with the realization that she could begin now to try to forget him: to wonder what lay around the next corner. She was still young enough to speculate about corners.

At Mrs. O'Connor's door Bill surprised her by patting her cheek.

"You're a beauty, Carol. Carry on."
 He turned and ran down the steps.
 She climbed the stairs slowly, dragging off her hat as she went.
 Ellen's door was closed, and she was glad when it didn't open; she didn't want sympathy just now.

In her room a pile of history texts
 lay on a table and leered at her.
 She looked at her watch; nine o'clock, and early enough to deprive her of an excuse to postpone them.
 She drew a chair towards the light and began on the papers.

A minute later she laughed aloud.
 Allen Lester had labored long and hard over the question about what held the British Empire together: Allen's mind had been unable to cope with an abstract concept of God, King and Country as a unifying force. He had rested, with simple, unassailable logic:

"What a terrific way to begin Christmas!"

But not, Carol thought as she went up the stairs, until she could forget about Mike.

There was a letter from Denis on the table, and she took it up hungrily.

She folded the note and slipped it into her bag to read on the train.
 There was time for a letter to her mother, and the other teachers, who taught in grammar school, had already gone.

But as she slipped into the steaming bath she realized that there were tears on her face. She laughed aloud, wryly.

"What a terrific way to begin Christmas!"

Carol Torrance, tomorrow, what happens to former things

United Youth Group End Park Services

The third and final sunset service to be sponsored by the United Christian Youth Group of Kingston was brought to a successful close Sunday evening with an estimated attendance of 150 people gathered on the hilltop of Hasbrouck Park to hear the Rev. Stephen Willis Ryder, Ph.D., of the Flatbush Reformed Church, speak on the subject of "God's Revelation in Nature."

The Rev. Dr. Ryder pointed out that all one had to do was to look at the wonders of nature to appreciate in some measure the greatness of God and his work. He gave several illustrations to bear out the point of his address, and held the undivided attention of his audience throughout the service.

Others who had their place on the program for this service were the Rev. Arthur G. Carroll of the St. James M. E. Church, Miss Marion Skeetee, Miss Norma Greene and W. W. Brady, who led the singing.

These sunset services were purely an experiment that was launched by a group of young people headed by Lloyd Slater, Edward Sanford, and Earl Burgher. After the first attempt had proven so successful, a second service was planned, and when this was even better received, the final meeting was arranged. All who have availed themselves of the opportunity of attending one of these outdoor services held on the summit of Hasbrouck Park overlooking the Hudson River, have been well pleased with the type of meeting that has been given, and no doubt the work of this year's committee has set a precedent which will be continued for some years to come. Surely the idea of a religious service under the trees on a warm summer's evening is a worthwhile project and has evidently been accepted as such by quite a few of the Kingston people.

Mortality Rate Shows Increase

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 10. (AP)—New York state's mortality rate for the first six months of 1936 increased slightly over the same period last year, figures compiled by the State Health Department showed today.

This, the department said, was due to increased deaths from heart disease, cerebral hemorrhage, diabetes and syphilis. Mortality from practically all other causes decreased, including automobile accidents.

The rate from January through June was 12.3 deaths per 1,000 population as compared to 12.1 for the same period of 1935.

Dr. J. V. DePorte, director of the vital statistics division, said that the number of diphtheria deaths dropped from 59 for the six months of 1935 to 27 this year, and measles from 165 to 114. Only one death was reported from infantile paralysis as compared with ten last year.

TROOP 12 GOES TO CAMP FOR FIFTH SCOUT YEAR

On Wednesday 12 members of Troop 12, including their Scoutmaster, went to Camp Half Moon at Cairo, for a few days of camping. This is the fifth year that Troop 12 has held this camp.

Wednesday morning at 9:30 those who were going met at the corner of Albany Avenue and Broadway to be taken to the camp in a truck. After arriving at the camp, tents were set up, bedding unrolled, and everything made ready for their few days stay. That night and part of the next day it poured steadily and everything got pretty well soaked. Aside from this wet day and night, they had perfect camping weather. The eats were good and the swimming fine. Some tents were passed also, and games of softball were quite frequent.

Friday night, the Troop committee came up for supper and brought with them an unexpected guest, Aaron Dornbush, a former member of the Troop. Bean hole beans were on the menu that night but for some unexplained reason they became very badly burned. This resulted in a very hurried trip to Cairo on the part of the Scoutmaster for more grub. After supper a campfire was held during which a few stunts were put on and songs were sung. After this the committee returned home. Aaron Dornbush stayed with the Troop for the rest of the stay. Saturday afternoon at about 2 o'clock a truck came and took the Troop home. All had a fine time and hope to repeat the experience next year.

THE VIENNESE ROOF ATOP THE FAMOUS ST. REGIS HOTEL IN NEW YORK duplicates the resplendent ballroom of the Imperial Summer Palace in Schönbrunn, Austria. A model of decorative taste and justly famous for the excellence of its choice dishes, The Viennese Roof is a favorite rendezvous of those who wish to escape from the summer heat and enjoy themselves in cool and charming surroundings. Here at the St. Regis, as at other fine dining places from coast to coast, Camels are the preferred cigarette. "Our patrons understand the art of dining well," says Lawrence, deit maître d'hôtel of The Viennese Roof. "You can see Camels on nearly every table. They certainly are the most popular cigarette at The Viennese Roof."

CHAMPION DIVER. Mickey Riley says: "Camels help my digestion. I enjoy them at my meals and afterwards. Boy, Camels have a great taste! Camels never get on your nerves—never tire your taste."

AS EVERY Camel smoker knows, Camels at mealtime help to create a cheery sense of well-being. You eat with relish—digest with greater ease. Camels increase the flow of digestive fluids...alkaline digestive fluids...in a pleasant way.

Like Frank Buck, Lee Gehlbach, Mickey Riley, Bill Tilden, Tony Manero, Willie Hoppe, and millions of other discriminating smokers who prefer Camels and recommend them, you too will find Camels an enjoyable aid in easing the tension of modern life. With their "lift"...their aid to digestion...and their mild, rich flavor, Camels do indeed set you right!

Each Camel at mealtime adds its measure of cheer
...stimulates digestion...increases alkalinity. So—

"For Digestion's Sake... Smoke Camels"

MRS. NICHOLAS FENNEMAN, 38, charming Baltimore housewife. "I enjoy Camels," she says. "Camels taste so good and they help digestion too."

"LIKE SO MANY OF THE GIRLS, I prefer a mild cigarette—Camels," says Miss Frances Morrell, machine operator. "I smoke Camels with my meals and after them too. They are swell!"

It has been two months since school was out and yet none of the college graduates have been able to solve our national problems.

Judge—You say the officer arrested you while you were quietly minding your own business?
Prisoner—Yes, your honor.
Judge—You were quietly attending to your own business, making no noise or disturbance of any kind? What is your business?
Prisoner—I'm a burglar.

Summer Heat

No breeze. . . No breath; the air is still.
The roses at my window all hang heavy in the darkened room. A drowsy scent, a dim perfume. No breeze. . . No breath; the sun beats down
With tropic fury on the town. . . And now across the sizzling street A wagon ambles through the heat— Some most imaginative soul is getting in his winter's coal.

August, even when we are not in the midst of a drought, brings us to the realization that fall is just around the corner.

Friend—What did you give baby for his first birthday?
Mother—We opened his money box and bought the little darling a lovely electric iron.

Long before summer has progressed this far we make the startling discovery that the garden stuff doesn't look in the least like the pictures in the seed catalogs.

Visitor—Is Miss Smallwood at home?
Maid—Well, er, you see, she's in negligee now.

Visitor—Can you give me her address there? I must get a letter to her right away.

If he can find a good excuse, a man is about as willing to wear a shining lodge uniform or a 10-gallon hat as a shapely girl is willing to wear a brief bathing suit.

Mrs. Gabbie (showing photo to husband)—This is an instantaneous picture of myself.

Mr. Gabbie—I can see that without having it told. Your mouth is shut.

The Montgomery, Ala., Advertiser tells something of "hassling days." In the following squib: "During dog days we don't feel like doing anything but hassling—that's what a dog does when he lays down for hours and pants for no reason at all."

Two wives were discussing their husband's disinclination to work:
First Wife—My husband sells balloons when the circus comes to town.
Second Wife—And mine sells smoked glasses when there's an eclipse.

B. C. Forbes says: "The height a nation reaches is determined by the breadth of its men."

Man—Did you ever win an argument with your wife?
Friend—Yes, once. It was years ago.

Man—What was it about?
Friend—I cannot remember exactly. But I do remember very distinctly that we were laying a carpet and her mouth was full of licks at the time.

Opportunity has never yet been known to have a case of "spring fever."

Usually the Roosevelt yachting vacations up the north coast, during the midsummer hot spell, have been triumphal tours; joyous, carefree expeditions. But this year observers note less than usual of the entertainment and jollifications coast communities are giving the peripatetic President. There seems to be more yawning and less yachting; more yawning to leeward than working to windward; less self-assurance and popularity than heretofore. So perhaps the preoccupation of the presidential pilot with the cares of state, and the new leadership which darkens his electoral ship, like a Kansas tornado, have affected him, as well as the waning public enthusiasm.

First PWA 'City,' Replacing Slum, Ready To House 2,500 In Atlanta

By WILLIAM BORING

Atlanta (AP)—The first "city" Uncle Sam ever built awaits only the moving in of its population of 2,500 to begin functioning.

It is the Techwood low rent housing development, spreading over 22½ Atlanta acres formerly designated by the government as a slum area.

A federal government innovation in that it is the first of 50 low cost housing projects completed by PWA. Techwood is a modern city.

It includes these properties: 13 apartment buildings, seven two-story residences, 14 miscellaneous structures, including eight stores grouped in a shopping center; an administrative building with clinic and doctors' offices, and 169 garages.

Electric Stoves

The buildings are of trim brick, are fireproof and all look alike.

The townspeople will move in August 15 and family breadwinners will begin paying Landlord Uncle Sam from $23.47 to $38.10 monthly for apartments, the price depending on whether they have 3, 4, 5 or 6 rooms.

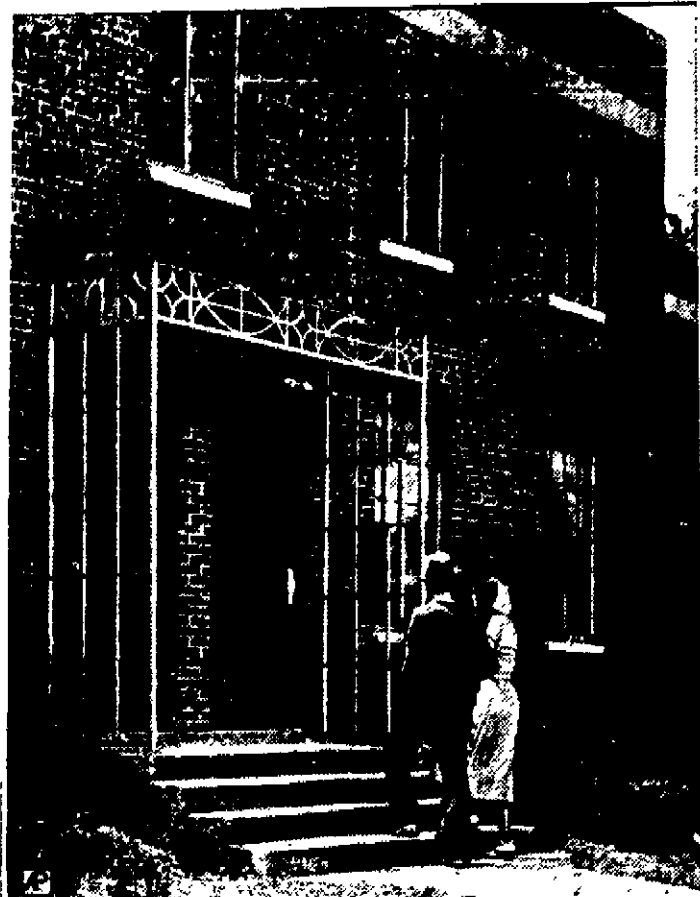

Rental will cover electricity used in running the new electric stoves and refrigerators the PWA has placed in every kitchen as well as hot and cold water and heating service.

Labor Savers

But the kitchen equipment is not the only thing that elicits "ahs" from housewives inspecting the apartments. They like the elevated radiators which allow sweeping under them with a minimum of back bending.

The glass windows that may be washed inside and out from within the room, the incineration system, the asphalt tile floors with linoleum in the kitchen, the glazed tile halls, walls that may be washed, copper screens in every window and shades already hung.

Then there are centrally located

Units range from $23.47 to $38.10 in Atlanta's Techwood, first low cost housing project completed by the PWA. Mr. and Mrs. John Clifton are entering a typical home.

laundries, tennis courts, playground, kindergarten, library and auditorium.

Techwood was created at a cost of $3,000,000 and replaced a negro section.

D. A. Calhoun, manager of the project, says residents for the 603 apartment units are selected from applicant families having incomes ranging from $1,200 to $1,800 annually and who live at present in homes classified by the government as overcrowded or sub-standard. More than 2,700 families have applied, he says.

Farmers' Co-Ops Do Big Business

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Rapid growth of the farm cooperative movement in New York state is reflected in figures cited by the Farm Credit Administration which show that farmers' buying and selling associations have pushed ahead in the past few years, even during the depression.

The state is slated for 1935 with 255 associations which have 124,000 members who did an estimated business during the 1934-35 marketing season of $124,520,000 dollars.

Though surpassed by fifteen states in number of associations and by nine states in number of members, New York is surpassed only by California and Illinois in estimated volume of business. California is credited with a business of nearly $181,000,000 and Illinois with nearly $142,000,000 during the 1934-35 marketing season.

In New York, associations dealing with dairy products lead all others in the buying and selling groups both in membership and volume of business, according to the figures cited. Thirty-seven of these associations had an estimated membership of 60,000 and did an estimated business of $83,630,000.

Purchasing associations number 145; they have an estimated membership of 40,000, and an estimated business of $33,400,000. Next in order are forty-two associations that deal with fruits and vegetables. Membership is estimated at 8,000 and business of $3,500,000. Following this are nine associations for poultry and poultry products, an estimated membership of 11,000, and an estimated business of $1,850,000. Fewer in number and with less business are associations that handle grain, livestock, wool and mohair, and miscellaneous selling.

Tracing the cooperative movement back, it is shown that twenty-four per cent of New York farms reported sales or purchases through cooperative organizations in 1929. New York was surpassed by the following six other states: Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Michigan, and South Dakota.

Also in 1929, farms that reported either cooperative sales or purchases, or both, numbered 38,339 in New York state. Sales and purchases totaled more than $64,000,000. In volume of business at that time, New York led California, Minnesota, and Iowa.

The foregoing statistics are derived by the New York state college of agriculture from bulletin 6 "Farmers' Cooperative Business Organizations," published by the cooperative division of the Federal Farm Credit Administration.

One Stock Company Formed in Ulster

Albany, Aug. 10 (Special).—Stock companies numbering 11,379 were incorporated in the state in the first seven months of 1936, exceeding by 102 the total of 11,277 for the same period in 1935, according to an announcement made today by Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn.

The count of 1,487 newly chartered concerns for July of this year surpasses that of 1,435 for July, 1935, by 52, while the aggregate capitalization of $22,020,000 for the companies formed in the past month topped that of July 1935 by about $1,000,000. Of the 1,487 new organizations, 700 elected in their articles to issue stock of no par value.

The five counties of Greater New York accounted for 1,304 of the month's incorporated enterprises of which number 682 were capitalized at $15,386,000 while 622 were authorized to issue no par value stock. The remaining 183 formations for July were divided among 35 upstate counties with 195 of that number registering the unusually high capitalization of $6,443,000. Warren county alone with but three incorporations was responsible for upwards of $3,000,000 of the total. Ulster county is credited with one company, capitalized at $65,000.

Westchester of the counties outside of Greater New York maintained its usual numerical lead with 36 new concerns for the month. Nassau, with 30, took second place from Erie with 29, while Monroe with 13 captured fourth honors. Albany and Suffolk were tied for fifth place with eight apiece.

Real Estate incorporations, totaling 399 for July, once again showed the top figure while garment making companies with a count of 76, held second place. New theatrical, moving picture and amusement enterprises were numerous throughout the state with beverage, ice cream, restaurant, and hotel ventures on the upward swing. One company declared its purpose to be instruction in television while another stated that it was formed for the "business of increasing the charm, personal appearance, magnetism and happiness of men and women."

Broadway: "The White Angel." The shadowy spirit of Florence Nightingale hovers over the Broadway screen in this authentic story of her tragic life, the history of a kindly English girl who fought the battle medical men of her day in order to bring comfort and sanitation to the hospitals of London. Her entire life was devoted to the betterment of better hospitalization and her work was so remarkable that the English war minister sent her to take charge of the hospital service at the front during the Crimean war. Her whole life was written in frustration but her faith and ability triumphed over the bitter and sometimes stupid factions she was forced to fight. The starring role is done with sincerity by the lovely Kay Francis and her supporting cast includes Lee Hunter, Ronald Woods, Charles Croker, and Montague Love. Halliwell.

Eastman: "Earthworm Tractor." The story of a poor but honest man who finds the need of selling something big in order to achieve success. The story becomes all the more amusing as Joe E. Brown struggles his way through the mud of a man who decides to use earthworm tractors. He gets a considerable trouble because of his unworkable tractor. Just one more error after another. There are several laughable incidents in the film and the whole picture is humorous, romantic and includes Jane Travis, George Hart, Guy Kibbee, Carol Lombard, Olin Howland and Stuart.

WHAT DREAMS MEAN

A delightful dream—sitting in a beautiful garden, playing on the mandolin!

This dream has floated through Alice's sleeping mind several times. Each time she tries playing her mandolin first with the right hand, then with the left. The right always plays better.

Now what would a modern psychiatrist make of this dream? He'd tell Alice immediately that dreams about right and left hands mean a split personality.

Two sides of her nature are at war. In her case, the more aggressive traits are struggling against her feminine qualities. She's gone into business, developed shrewd, hard, aggressive ways. Secretly she has felt she is losing something—a feminine charm, gentleness, grace, that she had as a home girl.

So her dream is telling her to stop and consider. Let her check the harsh, snappish ways she is acquiring and make an effort to remain sweet, soft, feminine.

Our dreams are echoes from our unconscious mind, warning of dangerous inner strife, revealing secret wishes. The wildest dream may be unimportant; the simple, apparently meaningless one may point to a real danger.

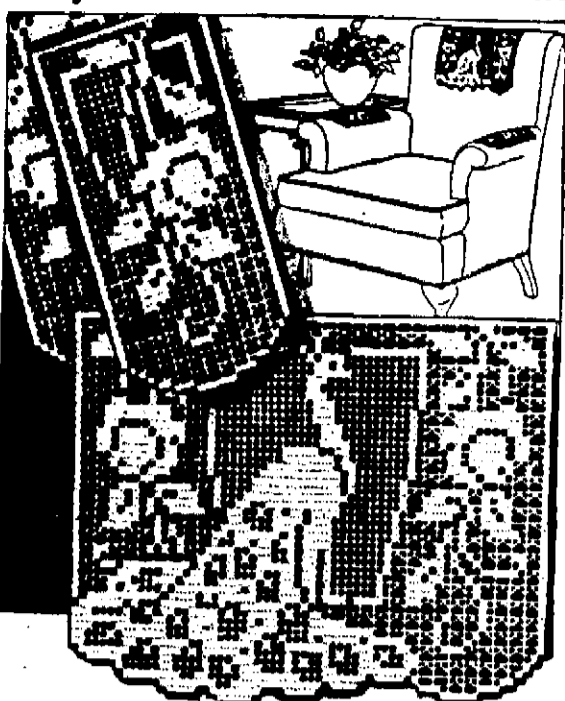

Learn what your dreams mean with our 40-page booklet, "Interpreting Your Dreams." Written by a noted dream psychiatrist. Translates dream symbols, gives typical dreams, turns night of modern science on old superstitions.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—William Powell is completing a secret deal, secret because he is a movie actor.

The average man in Hollywood, when he wants to sell his home, merely engages a realtor or puts up a "for sale" sign and lets it go at that. But a movie actor of prominence has to go about it almost furtively.

In figurative whispers he confides to a reputable agent or agents that he would like to dispose of his property. Then he waits for action, unbothered by the deluge of mere sightseers that would swarm the place if a "for sale" sign were unfurled.

Fence Spells Privacy

Movie people, Powell not excepted, are accustomed to having curious tourists pass in parade before their establishments. The bolder visitors invade the grounds even peek in at the windows. One reason many film estates are surrounded by tall fences with locked iron gates. This represents that modicum of privacy to which a rebellious goldfish feels himself entitled.

With Powell, who said when he built his home two years ago that he was building for investment only, the house was sold before the general public knew it was being offered. Powell says he is not building again, not right away, at any rate.

Tourists Detoured

The other day large signs along the highway blazed a trail to Pickfair, home of Mary Pickford. Tourists ordinarily have to guess at its location when they wish to drive by, but on this occasion they could follow a charted path.

They could have, that is, except that Mary was having a party for film folk and local society leaders sponsoring the California Festival association, which will produce "Everyman" this year in the Hollywood Bowl. Motorcycle officers detoured, with explanations, the curious motorists who would have taken advantage of the guiding signs.

In two respects this was a striking departure from early film days. In the first place, Los Angeles "society" then held aloof from picture people. In the second, tourists used to be uncontrolled. The morning that Pickfair's lord and lady awoke to find a party picnicking on their lawn may have marked the beginning of the filmsters' efforts at privacy.

Plane Shows How To Dust Potatoes

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 10.—Most farmers who will attend the empire state potato field day in Wyoming county, August 6, have a new experience in store for them. They have a chance to see potato dusting by airplane.

Arrangements have been completed with a commercial pilot for a demonstration in this art. The plane will be on exhibition all day, but the dusting is scheduled sometime during the afternoon. The same method is used on cotton in the south, it is pointed out, but it is something of a novelty to New York farmers, most of whom have neither seen it attempted nor are familiar with the technique.

During the spuds in this way is said to be a real art, as the plane must fly low to do a thorough job, and the skill of the pilot is brought into play in maneuvering the ship. The method is said to be successful and practical on large acreages where level fields are the rule. This demonstration at potato field day is sponsored by the Grange League Federation Exchange.

Many other features are listed on the program. In addition to speakers from the New York state college of agriculture and from the state department of agriculture and markets, guests have the opportunity to hear George W. Lamb, president of the bank for cooperatives, Springfield, Massachusetts.

More information may be had from the local county agricultural agent. Potato growers and others interested in Ulster county are invited to attend.

"Follow Route 31"

BEFORE the days of concrete highways, road-maps, and route-markers, interstate motoring was a problem. You had to inquire the way every few miles. Even then, you couldn't be sure.

Today, with intelligent maps and markers, a coast-to-coast tour may be made as easily as a county-to-county trip twenty years ago. It's like that with the advertisements. They are route-markers along the buyways of America. Follow them to value and profit, and avoid the detours to doubt.

Read this paper page by page and column by column. The little ads as well as the big ones. Often a bit of worthwhile information is found in the smallest type. For example, the Want Ads. So, look them over every day. But don't overlook them!

It's The Cubs Against the Field Again as They Regain Batting Eye

(By The Associated Press)

It's the Cubs against the field again.

Charles Grimm's Chicago champs have regained their collective batting eye. They've taken over the National League lead once more. And, with their great pitching staff still the strongest in the loop, they are once again definitely the club to beat in the stretch drive.

Of course, the Giants and Cardinals can still do lots of damage, but the Cubs have been able to make a pass at the lead, and the Gas House Gang still has just a one-man pitching staff.

The sudden return of the Cubs' batting punch over the week-end may not mean that they're finally out of their slump, but any outfit that can hammer out 56 hits in four games, as they have done since Friday, cannot be classed exactly as a pitcher's pushover.

They wound up their week-end bombardment yesterday with a 29-10 hit assault against the Pirates to take both ends of a double header, 10-1 and 9-2, and move back into the first place they gave up last week because of weak hitting.

The Cardinals were knocked out of the lead by a tremendous hitting attack on the part of the Cincinnati Reds, who Ared 40 safe blows all over the lot to turn in a twin win, 10-2, and 12-5.

With the lead at stake, the Cubs and Cards clash today in the start of their second series in a week, but the Chicagoans are a considerably improved outfit at bat since they were meeting.

The only other outfit rated a chance, the fast-moving Giants, stretched their winning streak to seven yesterday by downing the Phillies 6-2, with Clyde Castleman starring in a three-hit eight-inning relief pitching trick.

Maintaining their 11-game American League lead, the Yankees bowled over the Athletics twice, 7-6 in ten innings and 3-0, with Lou Gehrig hitting his 34th homer in the opener and driving in all the runs in the nightcap with a triple with the bases loaded.

The Indians saved second place with a doubleheader triumph over the White Sox, 9-1 and 5-2.

Rus Van Atta pitched the Browns to a 4-3 win over the Tigers while the Red Sox took the only victory of their series with the Senators, winning 8-2 as Jimmy Foxx belted a double and triple. The Brooklyn Dodgers climbed out of the National League cellar for the first time in two months with a twin victory over the Bees, 4-0, and 5-2.

Hambletonian At Goshen, August 12th

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 10 (P)—The Hambletonian this year looks like a wide open race with Rosalind, owned by 21-year-old Gibson White of Lexington, Ky., son of the famous trainer, and Ed Lasater, from W. N. Reynolds' Winston Salem, N. C., barn as the favorites.

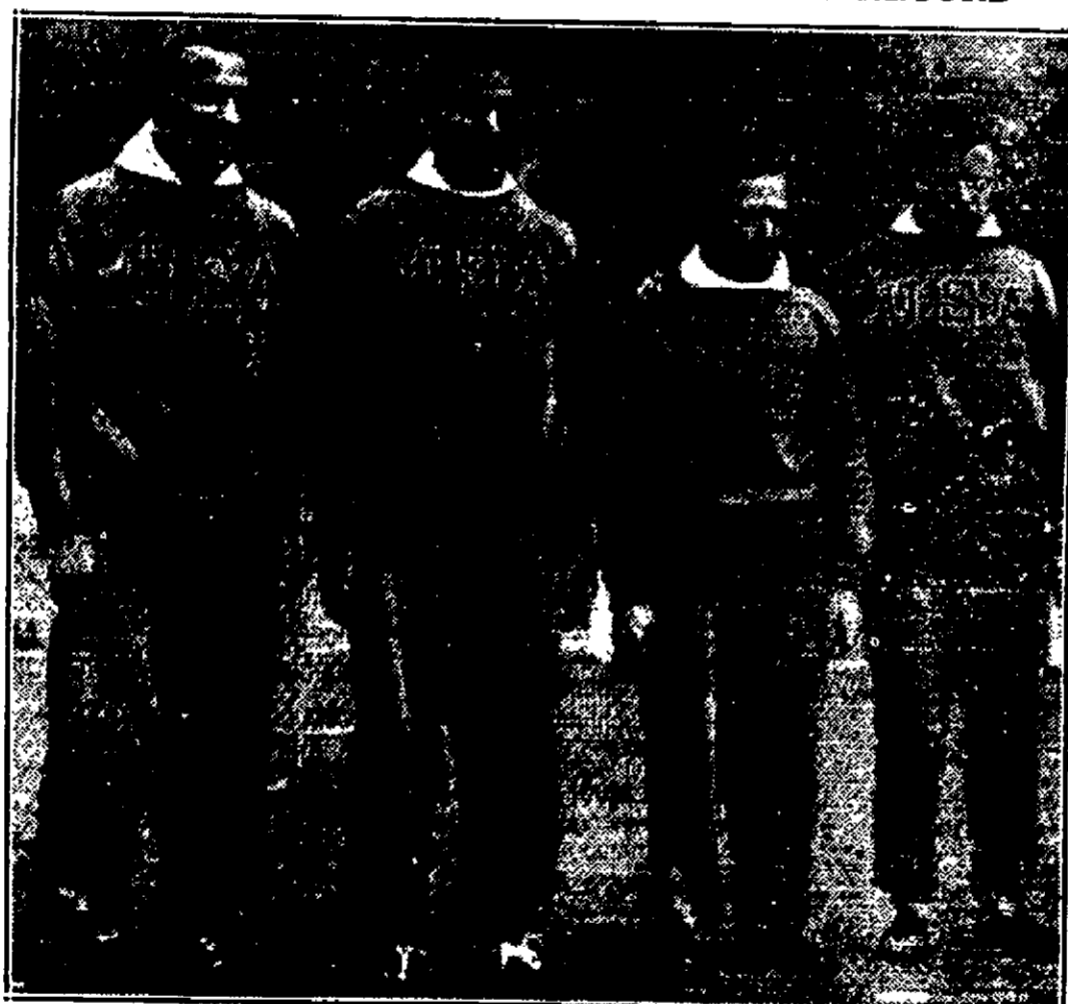

Thirty-eight still are eligible until the time for posting the final fees tomorrow, but not more than 11 are expected to start.

Rosalind was the "winter book" favorite but Ed Lasater beat the white filly decisively at Old Orchard, Me.

In addition to these two Ruth M. Mac, owned by C. D. Shaffer of Lexington, is to return to the scene of his triumph for a brush with some of his greatest rivals among the older horses, Calumet, Evelyn, Tara, and Angel Child, in the progressive purse.

The meeting opens today with a three event program. Tomorrow the $3,000 good time stake for two-year-old trotters, won by Rosalind last year, tops the card while on Thursday the 1935 Hambletonian winner, Greyhound, is to return to the scene of his triumph for a brush with some of his greatest rivals among the older horses, Calumet, Evelyn, Tara, and Angel Child, in the progressive purse.

Jesse Owens Will Turn Professional After September

Berlin, Aug. 10 (P)—Jesse Owens, with the approval of Larry Snyder, his coach at Ohio State, announced today he would turn professional after completing a post Olympic tour, provided sufficient financial inducements are forthcoming.

Already beset with offers, including a contract offering a 10-week personal appearance tour with a California orchestra, the winner of four Olympic medals frankly decided to cash in on his record and close his amateur career, despite the fact he has one more year's college eligibility.

Snyder, who coached Owens through his record-smashing amateur career, approved of the professional move.

"It would be foolish for me to stand in Jesse's way," Snyder said. "He's absolutely at the height of his fame now. Nothing that he could do in his remaining year of college competition would lift him to a higher peak in the athletic world than he now enjoys."

Under the circumstances, I believe he is justified in accepting offers to turn professional as long as they are the right kind. He has a good chance to make from $25,000 to $100,000. I'd be glad to see him do it."

Snyder and Owens are doubtful about accepting any offers before returning to the United States late in September after touring Europe with members of the U. S. Olympic team.

First United parcels of records to one state have been returned to the Texas supreme court to the circuit court of appeals at Eastland.

Neff Allows 2 Hits As Huron Indians Beat Pioneers, 11-1

Holding the Pioneers to two hits, Charlie Neff pitched the Huron Indians to a one sided, 11-1 victory over the Kingston boys, Sunday afternoon, at Fair View Park in Stone Ridge. Neff fanned 11 men and helped his own cause with a double and two singles.

McLean, Roosa, Cragan, Davis and Boelke all hit two each for the tribe.

The Pioneers scored their only run in the second to start a shutout. At the end of the fourth the Indians were leading at 4-1. They scored seven runs in the next two frames to bring their total to 11. The fifth proved to be the winner's big inning.

C. Neff doubled, Debrosky was handed a walk and Roosa scored both with a double. Davis and Boelke then hit to account for ten more tallies.

The Kingston Colonials bowed to the Newburgh Recreations Sunday afternoon by 8-6 in the Stadium at Newburgh. A five run barrage by the winners in the fifth inning put the game on ice. The score had been tied up to the fifth when the Colonials counted with runs to offset the two run lead that Newburgh garnered in the first frame. The Kingston boys staged a smart rally in the first of the eighth when they counted with three runs but were stopped after Ed Burgevin had rapped in the third out.

King Kong Shackett pitched for the Colonials and was picked for nine hits. His mates afforded him poor support in the fatal fifth which offset his fine work on the mound. Seaman and Taylor tossed them over for the Newburgh outfit and allowed the Colonials 10 hits. Seaman pitched for the first eight innings but was driven to the showers in the eighth when Kingston staged its three run rally. Taylor finished for him.

Newburgh's two runs in the first were unearned due to a Kingston muff in the outfield. Charlie Tiano smacked a double in the fifth which, coupled with Charlie Lay's hit, tied up the score. Lay's single got past Barry for three bases.

Leonard, Barry, Losee and Seaman hit safely in the fifth to start the five run assault. Three errors by Kingston, a sacrifice hit and a walk resulted in a 7-2 lead for Newburgh.

Tiano hit his second double in the eighth to score Knight and Hoffman. Burgevin then singled to center to score Tiano with the third run. The winners counted with one more in the last half of the eighth and Kingston scored another in the first of the ninth to end the game.

Gadd's Double Helps Two Star Bouts on Garden Card, Sept. 3

St. Remy A. C., 3-2

Preparations for the double barrelled world championship program scheduled for Madison Square Garden on the night of September 3, is going along nicely. Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion of the world, will face Lou Ambers, the Herkimer Hurricane, for 15 rounds, with the title at stake, and Mike Bellosie, the newly crowned featherweight champion, will risk his crown in another 15 round bout, with Al Roth and Leonard Del Genio, the rival lightweights, who have fought several times, will renew hostilities in a special ten round match.

With all obstacles removed it looks like one of the best fight cards ever assembled, and promises to draw a record into the old Garden. Canzoneri has repaired to his farm at Marlborough, N. Y., where he will put on the finishing touches in his training preparations.

Ambers is brimfull of confidence and is advising his friends to get aboard the old band wagon. Ambers is sure that he will annex Tony's title.

The other 15 round championship match on the same card between Bellosie, the featherweight boss, and Dave Crowley, the speedy English champion, is attracting as much attention as the main event. Bellosie was recently installed champion by the State Athletic Commission and immediately fought Crowley in an over the weight contest. It was a furious bout and ended in a draw.

Bitsy Is Looking For "Easy" Match

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—Although Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta may be wondering when he is going to have an easy match, the list of seeded players in the Eastern Grass Courts Tennis Championships remains intact after two days of competition in men's and women divisions.

Only three men and seven women have reached the third round, and Grant was the only one to have more trouble than he expected. He got an early scare in the first round Saturday from Eddie De Gray but won handily after trailing in the first set.

Yesterday Leonard Hartman, New York proved even tougher. Grant twice encountered difficulties before winning 6-4, 8-6.

Gene Mako of Los Angeles had an even harder second round battle with Manuel Alonso before he won 3-6, 6-4, 6-3. Don Budge, Oakland Davis Cup Ace, routed Robert Underwood of Los Angeles, 6-0, 6-1.

Several outstanding players did not get into action until yesterday. Among them were Frankie Parker, Gracy Wheeler of Santa Monica, Cal., and Helen Pederson of Stamford, Conn. They all won in straight sets.

Woman Killed Near Phoenicia as Auto Crashes Into Pole

Mrs. Mary Melendez, 40, of 10 West 112th street, New York city, was instantly killed in an automobile accident one mile west of Phoenicia, on the state road, this morning about 8 o'clock.

Two other occupants of the Essex Terraplane coupe, Frank Chlie, 40, of the same address, and William Pedro Reas, 82 East 115th street, driver of the car, are in the Kingston Hospital. Their condition was given as serious at noon.

State Troopers Ray Dunn and Elliott, called to the scene of the accident by residents along the state highway near the William Smith filling station in front of which it happened, said that the car hit a telephone pole head on, when the driver lost control of the steering gear.

One of the occupants is alleged to have said that just prior to the crash Reas appeared as though he had dozed off to sleep, letting the car smash into the pole. Evidently it was traveling at more than a moderately high rate of speed, the troopers said.

There were five people in the car. Reas, the driver, and Otella and Mary Chlie, two children in the front seat, and Frank Chlie, a son of Mrs. Melendez in the rumble seat. None of them were thrown out when the car crashed against the pole, but Mrs. Melendez, injured about the head and internally, by the impact, which drove her against the part of the rumble seat in front of her, died instantly.

Dr. Charles Quinn of Phoenicia pronounced Mrs. Melendez dead when he arrived, and Coroner Norvin R. Lasher of Saugerties was called. He ordered the body removed to the funeral parlors in Phoenicia of E. V. Gormley. Dr. Quinn rendered first aid treatment to all of the others at the scene of the accident and sent Frank Chlie and Reas to the Kingston Hospital in the Gormley ambulance.

Otella and Mary Chlie were cared for at the Simpson home near the scene of the accident. Coroner Lasher said he ordered an autopsy on Mrs. Melendez to be performed this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Whether any further action will be taken on the part of the state police will be decided after this. No arrests have been made.

QUILT EXHIBIT HELD AT WOODSTOCK. Woodstock, Aug. 10.—The quilt exhibit and food sale held in the M. E. Hall by the ladies of the Missionary Society attracted many visitors.

Rare old quilts were on view among them several over one hundred years old. Mrs. Lary Elmer exhibited a maple leaf pattern made of old fashion indigo blue calico with white, placed more than a century ago, and Mrs. Rosie Mann's blue bedspread one hundred and fifty years past, were especially fine.

Prizes were awarded by the judges for the oldest quilt which was made by Mary Jane Mallette of Connecticut 200 years ago, won by her descendant, Mrs. Russ, who also exhibited a star quilt that had been in the hope chest of Mary Jane Mallette.

The judges could not decide on the prettiest quilt between Mrs. Lewis Reynolds' flower garden and Mrs. Cambridge Lasher's double Irish chain. So prizes were given to both for their beautiful exhibit and exquisite quilting. Greatly admired were the log cabin and the flower quilts by Mrs. Gertrude Phillips and the bear's paw by Nellie Martin of the three placed by the ladies of the Missionary Society. Two were given to the mission and one was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Hout of Woodstock.

Bacher-McManus. Miss Mary McManus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McManus of Milton, became the bride of Will Low Bacher, nationally known artist, son of Mrs. Otto Bacher, and the late Mr. Bacher of Rock Tavern, near Newburgh, Thursday. The ceremony was performed in St. James' Church, Milton, by the Rev. Gregory Mullin, pastor. (The bride was attended by her sister, Elizabeth McManus, and Otto Bacher of Rock Tavern, was his brother's best man. Mr. and Mrs. Bacher departed for a wedding trip, and upon return they will make their home at Rock Tavern where Mr. Bacher is associated with his brothers in the White Cloud Pottery Company.

Hout-Viehmann. A very pretty wedding was solemnized Sunday, August 9, when Miss Anna Augusta Viehmann, of Wittenberg and Douglass, L. I., became the bride of Henry Lawrence Hout of New Brunswick, N. J. The ceremony took place at the bride's home, "Villa Victoria" at Wittenberg, and was performed by the Rev. Henry Hout, the bridegroom's grandfather.

The couple were attended by Miss Muriel Viehmann, sister of the bride and Milton Hout, brother of the bridegroom. The bride was attired in pink lace while the maid of honor wore pink chiffon. After the ceremony, a very enjoyable dinner was served 21 guests. Immediately after dinner, the bride and groom left for a wedding trip in the Adirondacks and Canada.

What was it? At 3:23 a. m. today, Sunday, I saw a burst of white light in the sky about under the last star of the handle of the "Big Dipper". The light vanished as soon as it came, then came a trail of sparks. The light seemed about the size of the moon at that hour which was in the opposite section of the sky. There was no sound.

It was local, as an airplane signal of distress, it appeared between Ellenville and Spring Glen as seen from the southeast crest of Bear Hill of the Shawangunk range.

Very truly yours, W. W. HUTCHINS, Nightwatchman Cragsmoor Inn.

Many taxpayers from the various towns of the county are taking advantage of the action of the Board of Supervisors in waiving penalties and interest on taxes for the present year if the same are paid before September 15.

County Treasurer Pratt Boice states that this gives about 30 days yet in which to take care of unpaid taxes without other charge than the 5 per cent collection fee.

After September 15 interest will be charged on unpaid taxes at the rate of 10 per cent a year, interest being figured from February 1 this year up to the date of payment.

Hughes on Flight. Angeles, Aug. 10 (AP)—Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman, took off early today from Union terminal in his transport "Flying Laboratory" plane loaded with 1,250 gallons of fuel. His destination was unannounced.

Hughes, who cloaks his aviation exploits in secrecy, recently received an allotment of a special radio wave length for possible use on a flight around the world. He denied he contemplated such a project in the immediate future, but admitted he would use the radio for "several long hops."

Edward at Dalmatia. Sibenik, Yugoslavia, Aug. 10 (AP)—Dalmatia, Yugoslavia with the sun today to greet King Edward VIII en route to a vacation cruise in the Adriatic. The British monarch was welcomed to Yugoslavia by Prince Regent Paul. At Zagreb, where the train, with his two royal private cars attached, paused for fifteen minutes, great crowds cheered the King. Yugoslav papers devoted whole pages to the King and preparations for receiving him. The welcoming plans included a demonstration of native singing and dancing by peasants in colorful costumes.

Calla Remark Childhood. New York, Aug. 10 (AP)—Nelson C. Eaton, Republican state chairman, called "childish" today a report he said was made to President Roosevelt by Francis B. Sayre, Jr., predicting that 75 per cent of the nation's new voters this year would support Roosevelt. Sayre is president of the Roosevelt First Voters League. Eaton said a Republican survey indicated the majority of first voters will support Governor Alf M. Landon.

Chewing on Cloves Was Ancient Chinese Custom. The custom of chewing on a clove to perfume the breath had its origin in the third century B. C. among the Chinese. These Oriental people probably traded with natives of the Spice Islands, where the clove tree is profuse, long before Europe was conscious of their existence.

The Portuguese were the first European nation to deal in cloves, but a century later the Dutch got possession of the East Indies and monopolized the trade, even going so far as to limit the growth of the clove tree to a single large island. This regulation had to be withdrawn quickly, for it was a native custom throughout the islands to plant a clove tree at the birth of each child as a sort of record of his age. The Dutch edict to destroy existing trees and forbidding the planting of new ones stirred the chiefs into rebellion, and the clove tree still flourishes in the East Indian group, Zanzibar and Pemba, however, islands off the coast of Africa, yield about 90 per cent of the world's supply of this spice.

First Wife of Adam

In the rabbinical writings, Lilith is regarded as a beautiful woman, the first wife of Adam. She fled, becoming a demon; Eve was given him in her place. She continued in the Jewish folklore as an evil spirit, the equivalent of the vampire. Her personality is said to have been derived from a Babylonian-Assyrian demon of similar name. She was believed to be especially hostile to children, and amulets were worn by them to ward off her influence.

Special Names for Beds Used by England, France

Elaborate beds in both England and France were known by special names. One was called the "England Bed" because the arms of England were superbly embroidered upon its curtains of violet velvet and cloth of gold. The "Great Bed of Ware" was widely famed for its size, accommodating 12 persons on its ample mattress. Elizabethan and Tudor beds carried on the tradition of formal grandeur and were resplendent with richly carved headboards and carved columns expanding into bulbs of huge proportions in addition to carved terminal figures of men and women and angels at the side of the headboard outlined against curtains of luxurious quality.

At the end of the Sixteenth century, according to a writer in the New York Sun, it seemed that extravagance in ornamented structure had gone as far as it should and in the Seventeenth century, decoratively speaking, there was a breathing spell for the wood carver. Bed heads were shaped of graceful, irregular curved lines, the frame posts and cornice made of any available wood, but they were covered completely with magnificent embroideries and handsome woven textiles such as Genoese velvet, appliqued or embroidered wool and silk rep and later damask. Scrolls and gadroon borders were constructed in wood and covered with skill by the upholsterer who had reached heights of supreme excellence not since surpassed. The inconspicuous framework was canopied and supported on four slender posts usually covered with the material and sometimes they were unobtrusively carved or painted. The mass of embroidered detail appeared on the headboard and the finest examples were as elaborate and required as great skill as did carved wood ornament. Fabulous sums were invested in them.

Sewer Projects Urged by State

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 10 (AP)—The state health department urged officials of 400 communities today to proceed with construction of "needed" new sewers and sewage treatment plants "while federal aid is available."

"There is urgent need for the installation of sewage treatment plants for the construction or extension of modern sewer systems and for extensions or improvements in public water supplies in many communities," C. A. Holmquist, director of the sanitation division of the department said.

"The department feels that as much as all communities of any appreciable size in New York state will have to be equipped with safe public water supplies and modern sewer systems with sewage treatment plants within a relatively short time municipalities should now give very serious consideration to proceeding with their construction while federal aid is available."

He estimated that communities
